

Upper Shore Regional Council Offers Equipment Scholarships to CTE Students

Chestertown, MD (August 29, 2022) — Students in Cecil, Kent, and Queen Anne’s Counties will now have greater accessibility to Career and Technical Education programs thanks to the new CTE Student Equipment Scholarship created by the Upper Shore Regional Council (USRC). By offering the CTE Student Equipment Scholarships, USRC hopes to reduce financial barriers and ensure that more students can freely participate in the education and opportunities of CTE programs.

“USRC is committed to making CTE programs accessible to more students,” says USRC Executive Director, Susan O’Neill. “Equipment costs associated with those programs can be prohibitive for some families. Helping CTE students is an important step in improving our workforce development and growing the talent pipeline for key industries in the Upper Shore region. Our community benefits from students who are well-prepared for high-demand career options and employment and have learned the technology and skills needed for success in their future work-life.”

USRC encourages students to apply for the CTE Student Equipment Scholarships soon to receive financial assistance for the upcoming school year of vocational education. Parents, educators, school administrators, and Upper Shore community members can help more students access the opportunities of CTE programs by sharing information about this scholarship with interested students.
